GREIVANCE AND DISPUTE RESOLUTION PROCEDURE

The President or delegate is to provide support to the complainant and ascertain the nature of the complaint and the wishes of the complainant. The complainant may opt to make a formal complaint or may wish to resolve this matter through an informal resolution process.

Informal Resolution

The objective of an informal resolution is to resolve the matter with a minimum of conflict or distress for both individuals. Informal resolution should be attempted, where practicable, prior to making a formal complaint. These consist of the following:

- Self-resolution. Any member who believes they are being treated unacceptably may choose to speak directly with the person(s) behaving in a manner that is disturbing or upsetting to a member. Dealing directly with the person responsible, may result in the behaviour ceasing. For this approach to be successful, the information must be delivered to the respondent in a confidential, non-confrontational way with a view to resolving the issue in an informal low-key manner. A good technique is to focus on the behaviour being exhibited by the other party. The aim is to communicate exactly what behaviour is unacceptable and distressing. This lessens the likelihood that the other party will take the comments as a personal attack
- Supported self-resolution. It can sometimes be helpful for the individuals to request the presence of a third party for support. The third party can be the Class Leader, friend, or any other person with whom the individual feels comfortable. The third-party attends to support the complainant or respondent but does not contribute to the process in any other way. The third party is not an advocate for the complainant
- Apology. The complainant may be satisfied if the respondent acknowledges the alleged unacceptable behaviour and apologises voluntarily. If the complainant is satisfied with the apology and the Committee of management considers that the respondent is fully aware of the inappropriateness of the behaviour and will not continue the behaviour, then the matter can be finalised. However, the Committee of Management may take further informal or formal action, regardless of the apology, depending on the seriousness of the alleged behaviour.

Formal Complaint

Where informal resolution has not been possible or appropriate, then the Committee of Management is responsible for ensuring the complaint is handled and followed in accordance with ref B Division 3 – Grievance Procedures paragraphs 25 to 29.

UNACCEPTABLE BEHAVIOUR

Bullying

A person or group of people repeatedly behave unreasonably towards another member. Bullying can include behaving aggressively towards others, teasing or playing practical jokes, pressuring someone to behave inappropriately, excluding someone from activities and /or events.

Discrimination

Any distinction, exclusion or preference that has the effect of nullifying or impairing equality of opportunity or treatment of a member. Discrimination can include racial, sexual orientation, disability, or age.

Harassment

Unwanted or unwelcome behaviour that a reasonable person, having regard to all the circumstances, would consider offensive, insulting, humiliating, or intimidating.
